Harlow Apex Of Triangle Of Film Land

Hollywood was sure there was no disguising that freshly blossomed romance between Harlow and Clark Gable when they were seen behind dark glasses at the Los Angeles county fair the other day, as shown upper left. But film fans who had seen Gable co-starred with Joan Harlow last year had burned in their memories scenes like the one upper right. Truth is, though, that Gable's current heart interest is Harlow's ex-husband, Bill Powell.

Action in Line With Debt Law

Cutting interest rates to a maximum of five per cent, scaling down mortgages and indebtedness generally, wiping out interest and penalties on past due payments, and making orders generally which are in line with recent federal and provincial government action in relation to debts, and extending payments under their orders over a ten year period, the Alberta Board of Review under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act has handed down its decisions on cases heard recently at Wetaskiwin and St. Paul.

Over sixty cases were dealt with and in every instance substantial slashes have been made to enable the farmer to retain on the land and give him an opportunity of working out of his financial troubles. During the past two weeks the board has been sitting in Calgary and moves next week to Vegreville, followed by sittings at Red Deer and Edmonton.

Interviewed by The Bulletin today, members of the board gave the following statements regarding

TOO WIDE A SPREAD

The number of persons registered as unemployed in the province has gone over the 10,000 mark, a fact that carries its own comment as to the extent of the depression in Alberta. It suggests a doubt that improvement elsewhere in Canada has been as notable as some grainkeepers personally have been led to believe.

Another notable feature is that Calgary is now the unemployment centre as shown by registers. Hitherto, while that city has had a large problem on relief, the bulk of the unemployed has been registered in Edmonton. An inference may be that officials of the southern city have been checking over the lists and found that some relief-men were not registered in Edmonton.

The difference, however, is too slight to invalidate Edmonton's claim that it should receive the bulk of relief grant from the Government. Undoubtedly Calgary should get more than Edmonton, but not $11,000 more per month.

A CHANGE OF FRONT

Italy, according to dispatches from Rome, is seeking better diplomatic relations and also better trade relations with Great Britain. It may be only coincidence that this change of front follows so closely the launching of Britain's re-armament program and the serving of notices—not particularly addressed to Italy—that Italy must not be closed out of the Mediterranean.

The fact behind the news is that Italy needs foreign trade and is more likely to secure it through friendly relations with Great Britain, which Italy has in the past been on consistently cordial terms than in any other direction. The Commonwealth and Colonies held where Italian exports are the most important for industrial products and fruits, and in which they can look for welcome only on condition that the anti-bulk tone of the present Premier and his left press is dropped.

Other objects may be in the back of Il Duce's mind, but when a country desires it is not necessary to question its motives. To the fact that Italy joins in pulling down the barriers against international trade, to that degree it will be helpful recovery and the bringing about of conditions in which a new era of peace will be common and less required.

PRESIDENT KERR

The appointment of President Kerr as President of the University will give very general satisfaction, alike in University circles and among the public. The more so because it comes as a change of long, unbroken continuity of service to the institution. The new President joined the teaching staff in 1909, and for the last twenty-two years has been a member of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. To him is due in large degree the splendid position 'Varsity' has attained among its contemporaries, the excellent body of instructors gathered together, the remarkable growth in the number of students who come to it, and the recognition everywhere given to its graduates.

The resignation of Dr. Wallace created a major problem for the Government and the Board of Governors. It is fortunate they have been able to agree on a successor, and that their choice has fallen upon one who, in addition to other qualifications, has the advantage of long association with the institution and of well-established confidence on the part of the staff, the student body and the public.

The University has some outstanding professors in recent years. Nothing could be better calculated to stop the exodus and maintain the solidarity of its corps of instructors than the appointment of Dr. Kerr as President. That he will have the loyal support of his colleagues is assured, and this is the best possible assurance that the University will be preserved.

ONE FACT OVERLOOKED

President Abernethy might do worse than agree to the "impairment of the University" by the bond-holders have asked for a commission that was impartial and competent would be to pay attention to some things the bond-holders have asked for. They are demanding to be paid four dollars for cheap dollars. Money was cheaper than it is now when they bought the bonds and when the rate was 20 per cent. All through the years they have

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The views expressed by Mr. J. S. Cowper in this column are those of the author and are not necessarily those held by The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

I don't pay to see many shows, but I'd gladly have paid a dollar to have peeped in at the annual Bankers' dinner in London last Tuesday evening, to study the face of Gerald Grant McGee, King, King's Counselor, member of Canada's parliament and mayor of Vancouver, while Governor Montagu Norman of the Bank of England complimented the banking system and Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain made prediction that Britain will some day return to the gold standard.

I've known "Gerry" since the day he graduated from the Ironmoulding Union to become a fledgling lawyer. We entered the B.C. Legislature together. When he retired from the House to fight the railway differential that kept the grain of Alberta from flowing westward, I resigned too and went with him to Ottawa to lend what help I could. I know the volcanic feelings he represented while Chancellor and ex-Chancellor, presidents of great banks and directors of the Bank of England resolved themselves into a mutual congratulatory session. Till he the Lord Mayor had particular instructions not to give his protégé from the wild and woolly West, half a chance to get on his feet and make a speech.

I hope I'm not breaking any confidences by letting leak a little episode that occurred at another bankers' dinner. It was the dinner given to Governor Graham Towers of the Bank of Canada on a recent visit to the coast city. An Mayor of Vancouver "Gerry" was invited to grace the board.

The estimable Mr. Towers in his address about the workings of the Bank of Canada placed particular emphasis on the fact that the bank is entirely dissociated from politics. Makes his decisions and shapes its policies solely from sound business considerations.

Someone thought "Gerry" would be a very nice thing to have Mayor McGee propose a toast to give of thanks to the distinguished guest. That's what I thought, too, but "Gerry" or they never have a vote in his parlour.

After congratulating Governor Towers on attaining his high and influential position while still a young man, Mr. McGee said: "I was very much interested to learn that the Bank of Canada is entirely apart from politics and makes its decisions solely from sound business motives. That explains a problem that has been worrying my mind. That makes it clear why the bank granted Saskatchewan a loan of two millions and refused a loan to British Columbia."

"It wasn't because the Premier of Canada is a Saskatchewaner; that's the Minister of Agriculture and the Minister of Finance is a former Premier of Saskatchewan. It must have been because Saskatchewan is a big province, producing a $45,000,000 agricultural production, and is enjoying the biggest year of its fisheries has ever had. All we need is to wait till production sends us a blight that will kill our sheep, destroy our lumber trade, kill our fisheries and ruin our mines, and the bank, from sound, non-political business reasons, will consider us safe to lend a few millions to."

Say this for the bankers present: they all had the wealth of the world at their disposal and the clever way the money handed it to them.

Before I forget, let me correct a correction I made a couple of days ago. In commenting on the wonderful film "Nine Days a Queen" and without intending to offend the Queen, I wrote that the scenario had inspired upon by making Warwick the King-Lord Protector of the Realm instead of the Duke of Northumberland.

A careful reader, Mr. J. H. Crib, points out that while, as I suggested, Warwick the King-maker died before the death of Prince Edward, the Duke of Northumberland was also Earl of Warwick, under which junior title he appears in the film.

I'm pleased to say that Mr. Crib is right. It's an added charm to this wonderful British film.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION—Albert E. wants to know: "Please be so kind as to outline the recent outbreak of typhoid fever in a foreign pillbox in the urinary bladder. Also, what kind of a growth is this?"

ANSWER—A pillbox is formed on an epithelial tumor. The term benign as applied to a tumor means that it is not malignant. The treatment most frequently recommended for a benign tumor of the bladder is the high frequency spark. With this method, almost all of the small growths and some of the larger ones may be successfully removed.

QUESTION—Hartley asks: "Have a lot of gas. If I try to swallow I take it with me!"

ANSWER—If you want to experiment with the yeast treatment, try using it between meals, when the stomach is empty.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History — By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1900 the eighth Parliament of Canada was dissolved. It was the last Parliament of the Conservative government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It had lasted for 14 years in Ontario, but gained an almost solid majority in the English provinces.

The Maritimes were not carried away by royal crest, the West, thankful for the property that had been sold, still voted for Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Foster and Hugh John Macdonald, were all defeated. Canada refused to give the wavers for political ends. Laurier was given his second mandate.

FINISHING A ROOM IN THE BASEMENT

By ROGER B. WILLIAMS

With the coming in of gas heaters, stokers and oil burners, finished rooms in the basement are becoming very popular. There is every reason for it, for space that formerly was wasted is now being made useful. But in planning for a basement, several points must be considered, the most important being the prevention of damage by moisture. Basement air is usually damp for being partly or entirely below the ground level. The earth outside is a source of moisture, and the walls and floor are in contact with the outside earth, and are likely to pick up dampness. As the masonry is at the temperature of the earth outside, there may be condensation on the damp and warm dew of spring and summer.

A room should be attempted only in a basement that is reasonably free from moisture. Such a room is not practical in a basement that is more or less flooded in stretches of wet weather.

ANSWER—Paint and lacquer are made of entirely different materials, and lacquer has the effect of a paint remover. Before refinishing your walls with lacquer, you must first remove all of the paint to the bare wood. Instead of going to this trouble, you might do your refinishing with enamel, rather than with lacquer.

QUESTION—I have a painted table and started to refinish it with lacquer, but at the first touch of the lacquer the paint wrinkled and came off. Why was that? What can I do about it?

ANSWER—Paint and lacquer are made of entirely different materials, and lacquer has the effect of a paint remover. QUESTION—Columb is in lack in your room. Put out one liquid tar or asphalt, and can then be finished with wood paneling or other material. Foundation walls can be smoothed with a coat of Portland cement plaster, but as this will be at the temperature of the earth outside, there may be condensation on the damp and warm dew of spring and summer.

No Woman Has the Right to Marry Unless She Is Willing to Have Children. For No Adopted Baby Is Quite a Substitute For Your Own

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My fiance and I have had an argument on the subject of having children. He thinks that a child is a blessing and that it is God's blessing to have a goodly sized family, whereas I insist that one baby is sufficient. In the heat of argument I said that I would prefer to adopt a child rather than have one of my own. I even asserted that if every couple would adopt a baby this would be a happier place, for it would save a lot of women from being left with the debris of Hades to give birth to a child and it would provide homes and foster-parents for many little children who have inherited the love of the boy friend to anger that he left and hasn't been back to see me since. Which of us is right? If I am wrong, I am willing to apologize, but I would like you to think.

Answer: Well, I think that babies are like angels' food. They are best when homemade. No matter how much you love an adopted child, you cannot possibly love it quite as much or have just the same feeling for it that you have for the one who is bone of your bone and flesh of your flesh. The very fact that you have risked your life to give it life and that you have bought it at the price of almost unrepentant agony makes the dearest to you, but it will value most that which has cost you most.

I agree with you that the world would be a happier place if more people adopted babies. I can think of nothing nobler and finer or more far-reaching in its effects for good than for a man and woman to have a poor little nameless, homeless, loveless child and give it a name, a home, a mother's and father's affection and rearing and a chance in life.

Moreover, it is one of the good deeds, that almost always brings its reward. I have seen so many dear, suppressed little little institutions children turn into gay and joyous youngsters to the freedom and warmth of a real home, and under the loving care of foster-parents. And I have seen so many men and women starved for the love of children find their happy hearts on the affection of an adopted baby. And I have seen so many homes elated and glad as a tomb almost, that would be in the matter of little feet.

I have never known a case in which people who adopted children did not love them dearly and find happiness in them. I have known but few cases in which the adopted children did not love their foster-parents as well as they would their own and in which they did not turn out as well as the average of own sons and daughters.

But, desirable as the adoption of children is for childless people, it is not desirable that a woman should deliberately refuse to give birth to a child. It is a woman's duty to give birth to a child, if she is not a job in which one woman can pinch hit for another. It is the most personal, individual, intimate task on earth that she can undertake, and she who refuses to do it is a woman who is not a woman.

True, when you get a bought baby you can pick out a boy or a girl, blue eyes or brown, curly or straight, blond or brunette, and have the work she brings you. True, your own baby may look like outsiders to you, but the little babies in the maternity ward, the hospital, the orphanage, the street, the city, the country, the world, are all yours. You can pick out a boy or a girl, blue eyes or brown, curly or straight, blond or brunette, and have the work she brings you. True, your own baby may look like outsiders to you, but the little babies in the maternity ward, the hospital, the orphanage, the street, the city, the country, the world, are all yours.

So, Mary, I think your fiance is right. No woman has a right to marry unless she is willing to have children, and no adopted baby is quite a substitute for your own.

Butterscotch Is Not Forgotten Baking Aid

Women still do the cooking. But in the last few weeks several good wives have written rather desperately, saying their menfolk have suddenly started a butterscotch craze. They want more butterscotch, sugar and, richer butterscotch cakes, and butterscotch is everything from ice cream to hot waffles.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE
Here's a butterscotch pie recipe with authority. For the crust, use 1 1/2 cups pastry flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a cup lard or other shortening and cook about 15 minutes. Beat the cream until light, then add the syrup. Cook for other two minutes. Remove from fire and add 1-2 teaspoons of vanilla.

This is the secret of confectionery which fills that perfect pie shell. Over it all spread a good coating of whipped cream. A meringue can be used, but it seems, according to statistics, that gentlemen prefer whipped cream.

BANANA-BUTTERSCOTCH CAKE
And surely nothing but loving kindness could still a loving husband's desire for a cake.

After the butterscotch sauce is made, it is a dessert sure to call for praise.

ing, ice water. Begin by mixing up a banana-butterscotch cake. Then with finger tip, ease knife, pastry mixer or what ever you like to use, beat, blend red of flour and lard. Mould dough reserved with ice water. Turn on floured board. Pat with affection. Roll out and then work in about one 1/2 teaspoon of lard.

Cover an inverted pie plate with the dough, pricking it in several places to prevent formation of air bubbles. Bake in very hot oven about 12 minutes. Remove from oven, invert tin to original position, and rest crust gently on it. Return to oven just long enough to brown the inside of the pastry shell. That's your basis for the butterscotch answer that will silence any husband.

Cake together in a sauce pan for two minutes 1 cup brown sugar and 4 tablespoons butter. It should be a whole wheat toast, broiled sausage, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Stuffed eggs, lettuce sandwiches, chocolate custard, tea.

DINNER: Tomato juice cocktail, planked hamburger steak, creamed potatoes, buttered broccoli, mixed green salad, banana-butterscotch cake with whipped cream, coffee.

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY
The Statistics Agree With the Yankees That Hubbell Has Plenty—Trade Wins Rustle

JUST as surely as the dandelions bloom on your lawn in the spring, the statistics burst out in sprays of figures when the roar of the world series dies away. The chart boys have just explained mathematically how great this guy Carl Hubbell really is, and their arguments sound mighty impressive. The Yankees are said to have arrived at the same conclusion, but they used only the simple formula of balancing his hits off Hubbell against their times at bat. That is, they tried to balance them, but the times at bat outweighed the hits in approximately the same ratio as the Empire State building outweighs Hogan's shanty.

The statistics for the season show that Hubbell served-balled his way to 26 victories with only six losses, which makes the earned run average of him less than two for each nine innings that he stretched his long frame out there in the box and blew them down. His best season in this earned run business was 1933 when the average was 1.66 per nine innings.

However the surprising thing about Hubbell's record for the season is that it was the lowest sixth-place Boston Bees that got into his hair most during the schedule. It's always that way though. The little runt you feel you can safely pass in the face is the guy that gives you the shiner. Hubbell's chores for the season consisted of 300 innings on the mound—and major league pitchers figure that a really heavy season. He was nipped for only 10 homers and gave less than 60 bases on balls, or one pass on the average for each five innings.

That looks like pretty fair control, but the surprising thing is that his control was better in 1935, although his earned run average was not near as good as this season. In 1935 he pitched 363 innings, a mark only surpassed by Dizzy Dean with 324 stanzas of hurling. Hubbell allowed 314 runs which made his earned run average 3.27. Dean's average for 1935 was 3.11 and he walked 82 batters. Parmelee was the wild man of the National in 1935 with 97 bases on balls in 225 innings.

Here is how the screw-ball king made out with the various clubs against which he pitched. The Cubs were really outfit to beat him two times out. He beat the Cards five out of six tries, set the Phillies back six out of seven, won four and lost two against Chicago, won four and lost once against the Pirates, won three and lost one with Cincinnati, trounced the Dodgers three times and beat the Boston Bees once only.

The first rustle of the winter trade winds are already being heard in ballroom. Most of the major league clubs had a good time. Financially and the traders are looking forward to a brisk market in ivory-polished and crude.

The champion Yankees have a bumper crop of rookies coming up from their farm system, but they are in the market for a couple of good starting pitchers. On the other hand the Cubs appear to have been properly impressed by the batting power of the Yanks and are looking for players that can pound the ball. Johnny McCarthy, the rookie from Newark, is slated to take over Bill Terry's job at first, while Travis Jackson will also have to be replaced at third. With the exception of Connie Mack, practically every manager in the game has a new pitcher in the pen. The old fog of Philadelphia, however, is about to mature another flock of stars, and he is sitting tight, comfortably fixed with the Yankee cash last crop of stars brought him.

LOUIS FACES THIRD TRIAL OF COMEBACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Joe Louis goes to the post in the New York Hippodrome tonight in the third trial of his fistic comeback campaign.

The Brown Brothers, who made quick work of Jack Sharkey and Al Eiling in two starts since his fall from the ring last June, took on young Jorge Braccia, of the Argentine, in a scheduled 10 rounds.

With nothing to lose and everything to gain, Braccia, who has won five of his eight fights in the United States by knockout, plans to rip into the negro at the opening gong and rely upon the prodigious whiplash he packs in his fists to start the fireworks quickly.

Braccia, who is 25, can be hit with a right, and fight men say he is a dangerous fighter, but his most thunderous right hands in the game.

TO REBUILD Trade Lou Warneke For Ripper Collins And Roy Parmelee

Business Manager Declares Other Deals Are Brewing For Cubs—Seeking Hank Leiber of Giants

By WILLIAM WESSES
St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Owner Phil K. Wrigley wasn't fooling when he told Manager Charlie Grimm to trade any or all of his Chicago Cubs in seeking "punch and color" for 1937.

He proved it Thursday by approving the trading of one of his greatest stars, Lou Warneke, most hearted uphand of the Cub hurling corps since 1932.

St. Louis Cardinals for Jim "Ripper" Collins, slugging first baseman, and other deals were being worked out.

Warneke, strapping right-handed pitcher, was traded to the Cardinals.

Other deals were being worked out, including the possibility of trading Hank Leiber of the Giants.

The deal was just a starter in Wrigley's plan to rebuild the Cubs. It was indicated, Charlie Grimm, secretary-business manager of the club, said other deals were being worked out.

Reports also were current that the Cardinals would be getting outfielder Hank Leiber.

Varsity, Hi-Grads Prep For Week-end Grid Games

Golden Bears Meet Lethbridge Bulldogs On Campus Grid Saturday—Battle Hi-Grads Renfrew Park Monday

Intermediate intermediate griders will be given a busy time over the week-end with two games scheduled for local grids.

In the first game Saturday, University of Alberta Golden Bears will meet Lethbridge Bulldogs on campus grid Saturday.

The Bears will again see action on the grid Saturday when they meet the Bulldogs.

Coach "Destiny Jack" Jamieson is daily proving his progress, breaking them into new plays, testing their stamina and putting them through practice.

They're planning a roaring season, the "Golden Bears" of the grid.

This will be the initial appearance of the Lethbridge team here in the last few years and their actual strength is yet unknown.

However they are a pretty power and though they bowed to Calgary Roughies last season, they gave the Roughies back a good battle.

Monday's holiday fixture will be a game between the Bears and the Bulldogs.
